SERVIA GIVES IN TO AUSTRIA AND WAR IS AVERTED

Sends Notice of Submission to Ultimatum to Vienna Today

ACTION OF CZAR FOCUS OF CASE

If He Backed Servia Against Austria Kaiser Was Ready to Place Germany Behind Dual Monarchy

FRANCE AND ENGLAND WITH CZAR

Gravest Concern Expressed in Every Capital of Europe Over the Impending Conflict

VIENNA, July 25.—Tenseness in the Austria-Servian situation was relileved late today when Servia formally announced its submission to Austria's note.

The word came from semi-official sources and was accepted here as absolutely official.

Austria's demand on Servia was for punishment at once of those whom Austria maintained were implicated in the plot which resulted in the assassination of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his wife, at Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina. The note was an ultimatum, Servia being given until six p. m. to reply.

LONDON, July 25.—Upon the action of Russia and Servia as a result of the ultimatum served upon the Belgrade governments rests the peace of Europe. With the Austro-Hungarian minister at Belgrade instructed to leave Servia with his entire staff unless he is notified by six o'clock tonight that the terms of the ultimatum will be complied with, this was the opinion expressed today in diplomatic and military circles in all capitals.

King Peter Abdicates

LONDON, July 25.—Special dispatches received here today from Belgrade say that King Peter of Servia, is reported to have formally announced his abdication. King Peter recently announced his temporary withdrawal from the throne because of ill-health and has named his son to assume regal power during his absence.

Russians Meet

Austria has indicated that no interference will be tolerated in her dealings with Servia. A special session of the ministerial council was called by the czar yesterday and another meeting will be held today when it is expected Russia will act in behalf of Servia. The first step, it is said, will be in the form of a request that the time limit of the ultimatum be extended. If this is refused, it was reported today, the Russian government may follow the request with an ultimatum to Austria.

London and all European stock markets are extremely weak today because of the belief that war is impending. American issues suffered in the general depression.

The belief was expressed that Austria will consent to extend the time limit in which Servia must reply to the ultimatum, but it is expected that the answer of he Belgrade government is certain to be hostile. From Vienna came reports today that the Servians are already preparing to evacuate Belgrade, which they concede could not be held in case of war. The garrison would be moved to the south.

England and France With Czar

Whatever action Russia may take she will have the support of England and France it was declared today. Germany has clearly indicated that any interference upon the part of Russia will be resented by the kaiser's government and the czar will immediately call upon France and England for open support.

In every capital of Europe, the gravest concern is expressed. Even though every effort should be made to localize a conflict between Austria and Servia, it is generally thought all Balkan states would certainly become involved. Montenegro has declared its intention of supporting Servia.

May Stall For Time

Reports from St. Petersburg and Belgrade declare the Servian ministers may decide to make an evasive reply to the Austrian ultimatum in the hope of getting more time. Such an answer, it is declared, will not be accepted at Vienna. If the Austro-Hungarian government remains firm in this stand, Servia can do nothing but refuse to accede to the demands.

Austria relies upon the neutrality of her allies, Germany and Italy, to

BATHING SUITS TOO SCANT SAYS P. W. MAHONEY

North Side Councilman Would Have Board of Public Works Remedy the "Shortcomings"

TAKES SLAP AT MAYOR SORENSEN

Latter Elected Head of the Municipal League and Now "Gentleman from 19th" Would Quit that Body

City Fathers Decide that Semi-monthly Gatherings Created Too Much Opportunity for Talking

"Resolved, that the board of public works be and is hereby instructed to take suitable steps to remedy the shortcomings."—Extract from resolution introduced by Alderman P. W. Mohoney last night and referred to the committee on baths.

Alderman Paul W. Mahoney, who has recently become a steady patron of the bathing beach on Pettibone Island, last night introduced a string of objections to the manner in which the place is managed. He objected to several of the practices, the above being a sample.

Mr. Mahoney's antics did not end there.

Mayor Ori J. Sorensen left the chair.

"I have been doubly honored in the last week," he told the aldermen. "I was elected president of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities. Then I have been made a grandfather, my son Clarence of Aurora, Ill., having become the father of a ten pound boy. It is in appreciation of the latter than I pass these."

A box of splendid Havanas was passed and "unanimously accepted.

Slap at Mayor

He had scarcely resumed his chair before the "alderman from the Nineteenth" was on his feet with a resolution providing that the city withdraw from the league which but a few days ago had honored La Crosse by electing Mr. Sorensen president.

Mahoney's resolution was tabled by the vote of everyone but himself.

The council last night voted to return to the one-meeting-a-month system and hereafter the council will meet on the second Tuesday of each month. A resolution was passed, however, to pay city employes semi-monthly, this against the arguments of Alderman Mahoney, who claimed such action to be illegal.

"Call Down" Board

A scathing arraignment of the board of public works for alleged failure to comply with specifications in the paving of Sixth street from Main to Cass, was contained in a report of the special street improvement committee. The pavement for

MAKE DESPERATE EFFORT FOR PEACE

Arbitration of the Railway Strike Situation Is About to Fail

ROADS REFUSE CONCESSIONS

Meetings Adjourn to Let Federal Arbitrators Frame a Compromise Plan

CHICAGO, July 25.—Federal mediators were reported to be making desperate efforts this afternoon to effect a compromise by which both the employes and general managers of the western railroads would agree to submit their differences to federal arbitration under the Newlands act.

Negotiations were near the breaking point late today, it leaked out today. The employes' committee held fast to their position that the railroads must first make certain concessions and then arbitrate the remaining point in dispute. The general managers' committee flatly refused and mediation proceedings were deadlocked.

The mediators suggested an adjournment of the deliberations to give them time to frame a compromise. This was done, and the compromise proposal, the terms of which are being kept secret, was presented to the employes at the forenoon session today. The managers were to receive the proposal this afternoon.

WOULD END FEDERATION

DENVER, Colo., July 25. — The Western Federation of Miners will cease to exist as a separate organization and will be merged in the United Mine Workers of America, if the report of the committee on amalgamation is adopted by the convention in session here. The report has been completed but will not be submitted until next week.

KING'S FAILURE RELIEVES STRAIN

Danger Now Apparent in Declaration of Ulster Provisional Government

LONDON, July 25.—The failure of the Irish home rule conferences which King George hoped would solve the Ulster situation, has resulted, it was declared today, in the paradox of relieving the tension of all parties. Following the passing of this last "crisis" all sides today arrayed their forces for a straight out fight.

One immediate possibility loomed big in today's outlook. This was a declaration of the Ulster provisional government. Leading unionists today openly expressed conviction that such a declaration is inevitable.

SENT TO JAIL ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

Sever Knutson Must Pay Wife Alimony Before Monday or Go Into Cell

MANY DIVORCES GRANTED TODAY

Desertion and Non-support Make Up Most of the Complaints Before Judge Higbee

Sever Knutson was sent to the county jail this morning for contempt of court. On his plea that he did not earn an amount equal to the alimony the court had ordered him to pay the sentence was suspended until Monday. By that time, according to his attorney, Frank Withrow, Knutson will be able to raise the money. His wife, Louise Knutson, claims that he owes her alimony for five weeks, amounting to about $50.

Conspiracy Charged

Knutson has two sons, both boys, and he said that their failure to turn over their earnings to him was responsible for the non-payment of money to his wife. The court expressed the opinion that there was a conspiracy between the three to keep the woman from securing her money, and so ordered the father to jail.

Many Knots Untied

A number of divorces were granted this morning by Judge Higbee, in the circuit court. Laura Hudson was given a divorce from her husband, Loren Hudson, on a charge of desertion and non-support.

Kate Gardner, who sued her husband, James L., for a separation won her plea. Non-support was also the charge in this case.

Ruby Schroeder was granted a divorce from Charles Schroeder during the morning.

Change is Granted

In the case of B. F. Harpel against Emma Harpel an affidavit of prejudice was filed and a change granted to Mauston.

On a charge of desertion Martha Toeller was this morning granted a divorce from John Toeller.

The case of D. O. Weider against Clara Weider, a divorce action, was continued, as was the Monroe Dansbury against Anna Dansbury case.

Sale Confirmed

The court confirmed the sale of the Burrows-Pfeifer property, ordered at the last session.

In the case of Anna Jelinek against Josephine Miller the report of the referee of sale was confirmed.

P. C. Cosby won his petition to foreclose against C. B. Connolly.

THROUGH WITH FATHER

WINONA, Minn., July 25.—Following his second disappearance members of the family of Rev. Phillip Carlin, disappearing evangelist, who was found selling papers on the streets of St. Louis today, say they will have nothing to do with him. His wife returned today to the family here after being in Minneapolis several days.

REFUSE TO LET BIDS FOR WORK

County Board Committee Thinks the Contractors Knew Something of Other Bids

WILL RE-ADVERTISE THE WORK

Bridges in Bangor Held Over Until Future Meeting of the Committee

Belief that contracts who made bids on bridges to be constructed throughout the county were familiar with the bids made by others led the committee on bridges of the county board to reject four bids at its session today. The work is to be re-advertised and new bids asked.

The meeting developed into a heated session with members of the committee making charges against the contractors. The contracts on one bridge to be constructed in Barre Mills and three to be built in Bangor were not let. More bridges are to be built in the county in the near future and the entire lot will be taken together.

The contracts let were for bridges to be built in Barre Mills, one for $950 by W. S. Stratman and the other for $818 by Charles Schaller.

MILWAUKEE, Wus., July 25.—Local postoffice officials today examined a letter purporting to have been received from Rev. Louis R. Patmont, Milwaukee's disappearing minister. Patmont's father refused to say what was written except that his son professed to be well. Postofice men believe it was mailed from some town in Ohio.

FIND JOE SPEARS DYING IN WATER NEAR BOAT HOUSE

Is Found by Daughter but Dies Before Physicians Get to Scene

HE WAS FAVORITE OF BOATERS

Had Made Host of Friends Among People Through His Friendly Service

HURT IN ACCIDENT LAST WINTER

Complained of Heart Pains Ever Since He Was Injured by Explosion

Joseph W. Spears, aged 59, proprietor of Spears' boat livery south of the wagon bridge, was found in an almost lifeless condition in two feet of water near his boat house shortly after 7 o'clock last night. He died before physicians arrived.

He was found by his daughter, Mae, aged 23, between the boat shanty and his boom, his head above water and groaning. The water there was but eighteen inches deep.

Drs. Flynn, Egan, Furstman and Marquardt are of the opinion that he suffered from a weak heart, grew dizzy while walking along the boom and fell into the water.

Hurt Last Winter

Last winter, while employed at the Edison plant of the local light company he was injured when a furnace door blew out. He was hurled across an engine room and against a coal pile. Ribs were broken and his wife says that since the accident he has complained of pains about his heart.

Miss Spears, when she discovered her father, called for help and men employed at the Listman mill, nearby, summoned physicians. Life was evidently extinct when they arrived but the pulmotor was applied. Doctors worked over his body for almost an hour. Not a sign of life was found.

The Spears family is one upon which misfortune has fallen for some time. A few years ago he lost a daughter. Shortly afterwards a second died. Last winter his wife was confined to her bed during practically all of the cold months. Three days prior to his death Mr. Spears had been confined to the house.

Physicians recommended that the family move—the air about the river and next to the packing plant was impure and that a change of surroundings would improve the health of the entire family.

Mrs. Spears was hunting another house at the time of the accident and did not learn of her husband's death until she returned shortly after 9 o'clock last night.

Known to Boaters

Mr. Spears was known to practically every boater on the Mississippi river and had many friends among that fraternity, friends that were created through perpetual willingness to do friendly acts and little services.

Joseph Spears was born in Scotland April 16, 1865. He came to this country with his parents at the age of two years. He came to La Crosse 25 years ago, for the last ten years having owned the boat livery between the Listman mill and the packing plant.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Spears of Stoddard; his widow, and four children, Mae, Josephine, Marie and Frances; four brothers, William of Whitehall; David of Chicago; John of Genoa, and James of Stoddard, and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Walters and Mrs. Lizzie Hanson of La Crosse.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, Sixth and King streets. Rev. D. C. Jones will officiate. Burial will take place in Oak Grove cemetery.

JUDGE IN FRENCH TRIAL CHALLENGES BROTHER JURIST

Albanel Sends Seconds to Dagoury After Latter Accuses Him of Showing Partiality to Caillaux

MME. CAILLAUX FAINTS IN COURT

Collapses as Tender Letters Written to Her by Her Husband Are Read to the Jury

COURTROOM IN UPROAR AT SIGHT

Spectators Rage and Quarrel when Beautiful Woman Gives Way Under Strain

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, July 25.—A duel between Judge Albanel, president of the Court of Assizes and one of his associates was in prospect today as the latest sensation in the trial of Mme. Joseph Caillaux for the murder of Gaston Calmette, editor of Le Figaro.

Judge Albanel today sent his seconds to First Associate Judge Louis Dagoury because of a remark the latter made while on the bench during the progress of the trial yesterday.

As a result of the bitter political feeling over the trial many expressed the belief that the challenge today was only one of a series which may follow.

The challenge of Judge Albanel followed the intimation by Judge Dagoury that the presiding judge was showing partiality to Mme. Caillaux and her distinguished husband, the former prime minister. Leaning over toward Judge Albanel during the session, Dagoury whispered:

"Sir, you are dishonoring us!"

Sends Seconds Today

Albanel paid but scant attention to his associate during the remainder of the session and today dispatched his seconds.

Gen. Dalstein, former military governor of Paris, M. Bruneau and M. Delaborie acted as Judge Albanel's seconds. It was during the discussion as to the disposition of the new famous letters held by Mme. Gueydan, divorced wife of Caillaux, that the incident resulting in the challenge occurred.

Mme. Caillaux fainted in court today when two love letters written her by the former premier before their marriage, were read. One of these letters ended:

"Thousands and thousands of kisses on your beloved body." Judge Albanel ordered a recess while Mme. Caillaux was removed from court.

Loses Her Nerve

When Mme. Caillaux took her place in the prisoner's box it was evident that she feared the worst. She was almost haggard. When Labori began reading the first letter the accused woman buried her face in her hands and wept bitterly. With the second letter Mme. Ceaillaux fell in a faint. Attorneys picked up the unconscious woman.

Caillaux was torn with emotion and endeavored to reach the side of his wife.

One of the letters read began:

"My very, very much beloved" and declared:

Burning Letter

"I must return to LeMains, where I preside over the general council. Were I unreasonable, I would take you with me, but I am reasonable. I am discouraged. What a life! My only consolation is the thought of you; the thought of having you in my arms as at Ouchy. What delicious memories! I adore you. Thousands and thousands of kisses on all your little body adored."

The reading of the love letters was the spicy morsel so long waited by emotional Paris. Every one in the crowded court room leaned forward that they might not miss a word as Labori started the reading. With the collapse of Mme. Caillaux, the court was thrown into an uproar. Shouts condemning the procedure were mingled with those urging that all should be known.

Dr. Charles Paul, medico-legal expert, who examined the clothing or Calmette after the shooting and also aided in performing the autopsy on the body, was called as a witness after the reading of the letters. He declared four bullets entered Calmette's body.

Deny Malpractice

Doctors Hartman, Cuneo and Raymond, who operated upon Calmette after he was removed to the clinic at Neuilly followed, defending their manner of attending the editor. Their testimony was obviously intended to discount the assertions which a physician Labori may call will make. He is prepared to declare that Calmette's wounds were not mortal and that had he been given proper attention he would have been about within ten days.

During the preparation for battle Pat emerged from his tent wearing his uniform hind side before. This soon attracted the attention of his superior officer, who demanded an explanation. Pat scratched his head and seemed loath to comply, but finally replied, with a sheepish grin: "Well, begorra, Oi thot if Oi wore it this way, thin when Oi had to retrate Oi wouldn't get shot in the back." —Life.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Huckleberry Pickers Have a Party.

She Bought Every One of the Berries.

IT had been a very hot day, and it was all any one could do to keep cool.

"Is it too hot for a story tonight?" asked daddy.

"Oh, no!" said both the children.

"It is never too hot for a story," added Jack.

"Well, I really am very glad of that," continued daddy, "because I know I would be very lonely if I couldn't tell a story every night. I think I enjoy it as much as you do because I never see anything that is interesting nor hear of anything that is interesting that I don't immediately think—well, I can tell Jack and Evelyn all about this.

"Today I passed by a house and heard some little children talking to some other children who looked very ragged, hot and tired.

"These children had been picking huckleberries and were going around this hot afternoon trying to sell them.

"They had stopped by this house where they had seen the little children playing. The mother of the little children had gone out for the afternoon, but they were having a party with a few of their little friends.

"They told the little poor children that they hadn't any money at all to buy the berries with, but they asked them to stay and play with them and that they were sure when their mother came home she would buy all the berries.

"The children could not resist the invitation. They sat down and had some lemonade and sponge cake, and, oh, it did seem so good after the hot tramp they had made looking for the berries. After they had had all the lemonade and sponge cake that they could possibly eat they all went wading in a little brook back of the house. They did so enjoy the lovely, cool water, and when the mother came home, there she found her children entertaining the little poor children.

"Of course she bought every one of the huckleberries, which pleased the little children so much.

"But what pleased them still more was that the mother added that if they came that way every day she would like to buy huckleberries of them, for her family was so fond of them.

"And then you can imagine how they rejoiced when the children who had been so kind to them said:

"'Yes, and if mother isn't home when you come we can have another party just as we did today.'

"So they refreshed and made happy the little tired, hot children who have to earn money by picking berries for hours every day in the hot sun and then go around selling them. And not only that, but they gave them something to look forward to."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

The Passing of Moira

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Moira brought my second cup of coffee steaming hot from the percolator. I could tell by her preoccupied manner, as she handed me the cream pitcher, there was something on her mind.

"Miss Van Dusen," she inquired. "How much would furniture cost? Not for the likes of you, but for the likes of me?"

I dropped the sugar tongs in consternation. "Moira," I demanded in a grieved tone, "it can't be that you're thinking of getting married?" She had been taking care of my studio apartment and incidentally myself for five years; I had come to look upon her as a permanent fixture in my small household. I am considered a bit crochety, I believe, but she and I got along very well indeed.

"Indeed and I am. He's been after me to set the day this long time. Honest, I hate to leave you, ma'am. It seems like leaving home all over again." She twisted her apron string in the embarrassed manner girls of her class assume when they talk of contemplated matrimony. "It's to be Cheusd'y week."

"Is it that young man who comes here once a month to see you?" Visions arose of an awkward, lanky fellow with an atrocious plaid necktie, who sometimes spent an evening in my kitchen.

"From Philadelphy, yes, ma'am. Dan'l O'Shea's his name, and as good a man as ever wore shoe leather. He's a steady fellow and makes four dollars a day plumbing, all the year 'round."

"Well, Moira, I should be unwilling to let you go for any other reason except marriage. I hope you'll be very happy." And I, Eustacia Van Dusen, respectable middle-aged spinster and successful painter of miniatures, regarded my humble handmaiden with something like envy. Her home, her man, her child, these are a woman's life. We must take our happiness vicariously, we spinsters, as we take our romance.

"Moira, I'll find lots of pretty things to help out the trouseau." We were the same height, she and I, though there the resemblance ended, as she was some twenty years younger than I, with the good looks I never had in my best days. Needless to say, my last year's clothes invariably looked better on her, than they had looked in all their pristine freshness on me.

Moira's blue eyes grew a trifle misty. "You were always good to me, Miss Van Dusen. Ate that other egg, now do, it'll do ye good," she added in the domineering manner she sometimes assumed toward me. Later, I could hear her singing about her work, as I sat over my painting. But her happiness was destined to be shortlived.

The next morning it was a careworn ghost, with eyes swollen with weeping, who awakened me at 8. She held a black-bordered letter with a foreign stamp. "My poor mother is gone—gone—I shall never see her again," she said. Later, when her grief had subsided, she made a statement that puzzled me. "I cannot be married now."

"Why not, Moira, dear?" I asked.

"I must take her place in the old home. I am the oldest. There are seven younger than me. I must do for them and father. Miss Van Dusen, I must take the first vessel that sails for Queenstown. I have written to tell Daniel it's all over between us."

"Moira, don't act hastily. Are you sure it is your duty to sacrifice your own future to make a home for your brothers and sisters? Will they appreciate your unselfishness? Just think! It must be at least ten years before the younger ones will be gone. One by one they will leave you for homes of their own. There will be no future to anticipate but a lonely, unloved old age. And what about Mr. O'Shea? Has he no right to be considered? Take time to think it over, my girl."

"I have thought about all you say and more. I don't know what would be right for the likes of you to do, but I know what's right for the likes of me. I will go."

I saw that further argument would be futile, and in the few days that ensued before the ship sailed, did all I could to further her plans. Every morning she watched for the postman's ring, but no word came from Dan. So it came to pass, that the day that should have been the wedding day, saw us depart in a taxi, laden with sundry bags and hat boxes and a little old steamer trunk perched on top with the driver. As we turned into West street a drizzling rain began to fall. She looked through the window rather sadly, I thought. "He might at least of sent a telegram," she volunteered, I had been thinking that very thing.

Arrived at the pier, and her luggage safely bestowed in her tiny stateroom (I had insisted on her traveling second cabin), we stood side by side at the vessel's rail near the gang plank, her blue eyes wistfully searching the crowd on the pier. They were calling "All aboard!" when I saw her face brighten. "It's himself!" she cried. I followed the direction of her glance, and sure enough there was he of the impossible necktie approaching on a run. He made the gang plank in two jumps, and Moira was in his arms, laughing and crying at once. I saw they didn't need me and slipped away unnoticed. I found a place on the pier where I could watch them, sentimental old maid that I am. I say Dan'l produce a large safety pin from somewhere and tenderly fasten Moira's mackintosh at the neck so that the whole pin was in full view of the public. How her neat soul must have squirmed! But such is the power of love, she gave no sign of disapproval.

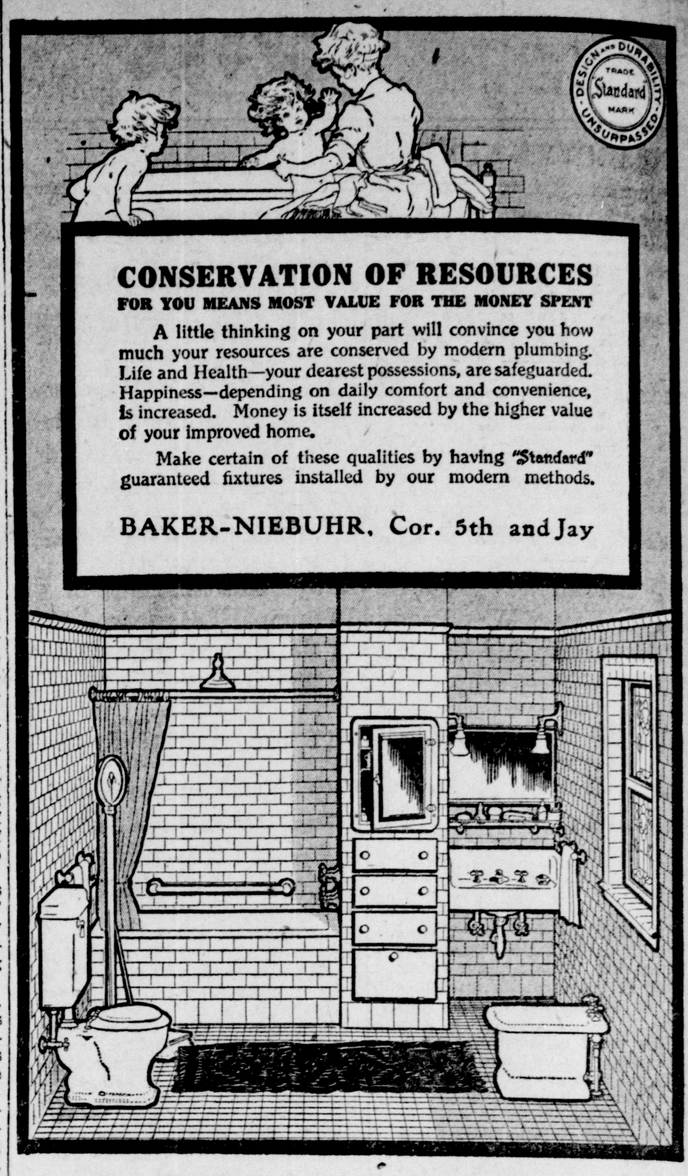

Already the deckhands were preparing to raise the gang plank. That foolish fellow would be left!

"Moira!" I called at the top of my lungs, "tell him to hurry!"

They both turned. She leaned over the rail and waved gayly. Mr. O'Shea made a megaphone of his hands.

"It's all right, lady, I'm going too. She's too fine a gur-rul to be an old maid!" Here an eloquent dig from an athletic elbow discouraged further conversational efforts on his part.

"I think so, too!" I shouted as the boat moved off.

Fun for the Children.

A peculiar event which took place at Florence, Italy, was an annual marble scramble, held through the generosity of a local manufacturer. Many children gathered and "scrambled" for first a pailful of marbles, then $63 in change, candy (for girls only) and finally ten dozen baseballs (for boys only). The scramble was followed by the annual baby show.

Mysteries.

It is a fact that in every man (not in every woman) there lives a lover; a lover who is called out in all his potentialities often by the most insignificant little things—as long as they come at the psychological moment; the glimpse of a face at an unusual angle, an evanescent attitude, the curve of a cheek often looked at before, perhaps, but then, at the moment, charged with astonishing significance. These are great mysteries, of course.—From "Chance," by Joseph Conrad.

Patience Personified.

A CONTRIBUTION TO THE GAIETY OF U. S.

Here's exercise for your sense of humor: Barnes and Murphy have sued Roosevelt for libel because of his assertion that under their political domination New York has been corrupt.

It's funny. However, they seem to have "hung one on the colonel." He cannot crush them by passing the lie, for they are charter members of the Ananias club. He can not charge them with nature faking, for they are possum, true to type. "Undesirable citizen" has become a compliment. He will simply have to stand at Armageddon, and although Wilson has usurped the big stick, he may still give a good account of himself with the jaw-bone of an ass.

EVEN THEIR NAME IS DECEITFULLY PHRASED

Republican State Central Committee.

Republican State Committee.

The former is the legal title of the governing board of the state organization of the republican party.

The latter is the style affected by the bolting reactionary wing of the party, and adorns all its letter heads and stationery.

How many voters are there in the state who do not follow politics closely and who will believe letters and arguments on stationery captioned, "Republican State Committee," come from the duly constituted Republican State Central Committee? And in how many of these will the party tie be strong enough to influence voting beyond the merits of the argument so conveyed?

Many, Mr. Philipp's organization believes, for it would hardly brave criticism for this deceit unless it felt that some material benefits would accrue.

Were the term, Republican State Central Committee, the copyrighted property of an individual, one attempting to use the "Republican State Committee" as a competitor would be stopped in a suit for infringement.

Why is not the republican party of Wisconsin entitled to protection against this political fraud?

FROM THE FARM TO THE FAMILY

It has taken us a long time to learn that the best method of attacking the high cost of living is to bring the producer and the consumer closer together. We have solved the problem of producing food and merchandise cheaply, but until lately we have not been able to distribute it cheaply. By the time the farmer's produce reached the city man's table it often cost double or even quadruple what the farmer got for it. Since the public awoke to the real situation the old clumsy system of distribution is being remedied. And the express companies, long criticised as backward in their methods and extortionate in their charges, are to be credited with the most effective system yet evolved.

The competition of the federal parcel post drove the express companies to the necessity of developing efficiency along new lines or going out of business. They quickly felt the effect of the government's lower charges for carrying small parcels. They lowered their own rates in response. Then, as farmers, gardeners and poultry raisers began to use the parcel post to get their products quickly and cheaply to the city market, the express companies saw their opportunity.

At first this business was done chiefly with individual householders. In the large cities, however, particularly New York and Chicago, there has been an astonishing growth of the buying club idea. Families in the same neighborhood have joined together to buy direct from the farms in large quanities. It has been found especially easy for workers in stores and business offices and for factory employes, labor unions and fraternal societies, because of their existing organization, to cooperate in this way. There is one club in a New York department store that buys as much as 3,000 pounds of fresh produce a week.

ORDER AND CULTURE

The United States may be crude and turbulent, as European opinion agrees; Americans may be a quarrelsome and unregenerate lot, prone to physical violence and hot speech; but—

The government postoffice at Washington was never seized and barricaded by a mob of striking federal employees, blockading the mails of the nation because congress wouldn't raise their pay. That happened in Paris recently.

A session of congress was never turned into a howling mob of representatives fighting all over the floor of the house and shouting and jeering until the riot ended in forced adjournment. That charming event occurred in the British parliament last month.

The old feller who used to do his whiskers up with hair ribbons now uses a safety razor and smokes cigarets. The world do move, but there is sometimes a question whether it is moving forward or backward.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Limit

You may knock his religion as much as you like;
You may say he's the homeliest guy on the pike;
You may criticise all of the crothing he wears;
You may call him down good in his business affairs;
You may knock his political creeds if you wish;
You may hammer the way in which he catches fish;
You may poke lots of fun at the shape of his hat;
You may knock all the pictures that hang in his flat.
But, if you are wise, you will not go too far,
Don't criticise for a brief moment his car.

Cordially Indorsed

Bayard Veiller, the playwright, says a candidate for citizenship came to the naturalization bureau in New York to take out his final papers. The applicant was a Pole who spoke broken English and was apparently eager to become a voter in the shortest possible time. With him ws a friend and sponsor from the east side.

Under examination the candidate betrayed a tremendous lack of knowledge of national history and institutions and public men. Finally the examiner turned to his companion:

"Here," he said testily, "this man's ignorance is appalling. Take him away and explain something to him about the government of the United States and of the state of New York. Don't bring him back until he is better qualified."

The east sider led his crestfallen fellow countryman away. Within 20 minutes they both returned. "Hello," said the examiner; "back so soon?"

"Everything is all right," stated the east sider. "I took my friend out and read him the constitution, and he says he likes it first rate."

Of the Gentler Sex

There is a man in New York who breeds Great Danes for the bench shows. He was walking along Fifth avenue with an especially handsome dog in leash when two women hailed him.

"What a magnificent animal—a Great Dane, isn't it?" said one.

"Yessum," said the breeder.

"I presume you call him Hamlet then," put in the second woman.

"No'm—Ophelia."

The Roof Gardener

Dr. A. F. Christian, an eminent Boston physician, announces that ice cream is the best remedy for alcoholism. At a recent luncheon Dr. Christian, apropos of this fact, told a story.

"Roof gardens," he said, "and roof gardening, during the wife's absence at the seashore, are responsible for a good deal of mid-summer alcoholism. But, if the wife is home, she can restrain the roof gardening tendencies on her husband's part.

"Thus a would-be roof gardener said to his wife the other evening after dinner:

"'I'll have to return to the office right away, my dear. And I'm afraid I'll be kept rather late. I've got to post my books for the entire month.'

"'Will you be going anywhere else besides the office?' she said calmly.

"'Er—no,' he replied.

"'Then,' said she, 'I'll just ask you to step in at the corner grocery before it closes and get a couple of nice No. 1 salt mackerel. You can bring them home with you afterwards.'

"'Er—all right,' he muttered.

"Then, as he set out gloomily, his wife said to herself with a smile:

"'Well, I guess he won't do much roof-gardening tonight with two great big wet mackerel in his pocket.'"

FACE FULL OF PIMPLES AND SPOTS

Would Pain, Itched and Burned. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Months Was Well.

4240 So. California Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"About a year ago my face was full of pimples and red spots. To sleep one night without itching was almost impossible. Some of the pimples would get big and red and if I touched them they would pain, while others would get white heads on them and when they broke open some matter came out. They would burn and itch and I scratched them so that sometimes they would break and bleed. That always caused them to be worse.

"I bought all kinds of salves and creams and I found out that they did me no good. I noticed the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertisement and I sent for a free sample. I started to use them that night. I went to the drug store and bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment and I found the pimples were drying out. In two months I was well." (Signed) Chas. J. Peck, May 7, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

Cuticura Soap and Ointment have proved most valuable for the treatment of dandruff, itching, irritated scalps with dry, thin and falling hair, irritations and chafings of infancy and for all purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery as well as for pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness of the face and hands. A Warning

"Constant vigilance is the price of enduring beauty," said, in Pittsburg, Miss Lillian Russel, who, of all women, ought to know, for Miss Russell's beauty is as ravishing today as it was when she starred in the ever-memorable "Brigands."

"Diet, exercise, sun-baths, massage—constant vigilance," she repeated, is the price of enduring beauty. Many splendid beauties pass their youth recklessly killing time. Then, before they're forty, time turns round and kills them."

A Proper Handicap

A well-known comedian who is noted, among other things, for his ability to stow away highballs without outward evidences of the same was standing before a eNw York bar stirring the ice in his glass.

Another actor, who cannot take many drinks without showing the effects, drifted in.

"Hello, Hank," he hailed. "How about you and I taking a drink or so together?"

"Charley," said the other, "I'll spot you five."

A Dual Personality

The president was talking about a statesman who was annoying him with a proposition he could not consider.

"The trouble with him," he said, "is that he seems to be half gentleman and half mule."

He paused and looked out of his office window at a magnolia tree in bloom on the White huse lawn.

"It is very difficult," Mr. Wilson continued, "to treat the mule half with the consideration demanded by the gentleman half."

The Great New Historical Romance

John O' Jamestown

By VAUGHN KESTER

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

I had been a little in advance of my comrades when Rawhunt gave the signal to his waiting bands, and apparently had not been greatly regarded in their first onslaught; but now as I stood undecided as to the direction in which an opening lay for the flight I purposed, an arrow buried itself in the ground at my feet, and a second later another went through the sleeve of my doublet. I deemed that since life was worth some effort even in that desperate pass, now had come the moment for that effort and instinctively I tightened my belt.

Toward the river, as I had seen, lay immediate and certain death, and I turned inland; in that direction would I go. With a mighty intake of my breath and a little prayer that God would not utterly abandon one Richard Farraday, I sprang forward, but had only made half a dozen strides when I became aware that I was singled out for pursuit. Advancing toward me was a lusty painted fellow, who, as he approached, menaced me with his keen axe.

I stole a glance to the right and to the left, and saw that other painted forms were coming at me from all sides. I quickly made my choice of evils, keeping straight on, since I reasoned that one heathen might be better managed than half a hundred. When I was within perhaps a score of paces of the savage, he came to a stand, and I saw him poise his axe aloft; then as he let fly at me, I ducked very low, making sure he intended to cleave my skull, and the axe whistled past me. Another instant and I was close on him who had meant so unkindly by me, and before he knew my purpose I had planted my fist on the point of his jaw with such good will that he was made to groan like a poled ox, nor could he keep his feet, but down he went in a heap; whereat I let forth a shout of triumph as I sprang lightly over his prostrate body.

There ensued as cruel a race as was ever run by a man. With that yelping pack at my heels and on my flanks, it was dodge and double, now to the right and now to the left; hands were thrust out to seize me, and my clothes were half torn from my shoulders; blows were aimed at me with heavy clubs, which did more to urge me on than to stop me.

I had put perhaps a mile betwixt myself and that spot where the massacre of my comrades was taking place, when I came into a space almost denuded of trees, such as were standing having been killed by building fires at their base. On the further side of this dead forest was an open field, and beyond it I saw the huts of Werowocomoco.

I made no doubt my race was run and lost, for my pursuers held me at a straight course, and so perforce Werowocomoco became my goal. Yet I relaxed not an inch or my lead, though I felt my case was desperate and my mind went far enough afield with thoughts of those I was like never to see again in this world.

Now I was running amongst the scattered huts, when a grim figure darted athwart my path; I heard a club whistle above my head, and then in a twinkling earth and sky seemed to come together at my very feet; and the huddle of huts amongst which I fled, the winter sunlight, the yells of the savage pack at my heels—all was snuffed out.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN.

When my senses returned I found myself lying at full length on a bed of skins; at my feet a smouldering fire gave out the pungent odour of cedar wood in combustion, and a scanty light to some dark interior, from all of which I udged I must be in an Indian lodge. I sought to lift myself by my ebows, but the effort made me know that my head was very dizzy, and I sank back groaning. There was a slight movement at the other side of the handful of wasting embers and someone spoke my name.

"I doubted if you would ever come back to life, Master Farraday, you lay so long as one dead," the voice said.

"I have a serviceable thick skull," I rejoined. "But who are you "

"I am young Henry Spilman."

He stepped to my side as he spoke, and I could make out his slight boyish figure in the uncertain light. He had come to Virginia to be a sort of page to Captain Ratcliffe.

"Were any others saved?" I asked.

He shook his head.

"Lord, sir, all but us are dead to the last gasp and the last man," and a shudder passed through him.

"And where are we?" I asked, after a moment's silence.

"At Werowocomoco, Master Farraday."

"And how is it we two were not slain with the others?"

"I do not know how you came here, but the comeliest Indian maid I have yet seen had them spare my life!" he said.

"Pocahontas!" I cried.

"They were about to make an end of me with their clubs, when the maid interfered. By her orders I was brought hither, to find you, Master Farraday, stretched out like one dead."

"You may thank God that He has given the blessed Pocahontas so tender a heart," I said, and my courage began to return.

True we were prisoners, but clearly we had a friend whose power nad been sufficient to save us from immediate death.

"Do you think they but spare us now, to fat and eat us alter?" asked young Henry.

"I would not burden myself with that worry, lad," I said. "I am mainly concerned with living, and if they kill me they can make what devil's use they please of me."

Now the flaps of skin that answered for a door to the lodge were pushed aside. Through this low opening there came the pale radiance of a moon-lit winter's night and I saw that the earth lay wrapped in a soft covering of newly fallen snow. A figure appeared in the opening and then the curtain dropped into place. With my foot I reached out and pushed the smouldering embers of the fire together and a ruddy flame burst forth to show us the intruder. It was Pocahontas herself, in her robe of doeskin; and I vow no man ever looked on a royal mistress with more of honest love and gratitude than I did on that little princess, whom I doubted not had made herself the merciful instrument to save my life.

Are You Suffering From Auto-Intoxication?

The dictionary says that Auto-Intoxication is "poisoning, or the state of being poisoned, from toxic, substances produced within the body." This is a condition due to the stomach, bowels, kidneys, liver, or pores of the body failing to throw off the poisons. More than 50% of adults are suffering from this trouble. This is probably why you are suffering from nervousness, headaches, loss of appetite, lack of ambition, and many other symptoms produced by Auto-Intoxication. Your whole system needs stirring up.

PUBLIC DEBATE

To the Editor:

Dear Sir: In your Friday evening, July 17, there appeared a report made by Mr. L. P. Benezet, the superintendent of the public schools of the city of La Crosse. In this report Mr. Benezet gave a summing up of all the resident students who have attended the different schools and colleges in the city of La Crosse. He estimates that the two business colleges had been patronized to the extent of only thirty city students. This is an error. The Keefe Business college alone enrolled 103 resident students in its day classes, evening classes and its private instruction department during 1913-1914. Mr. Benezet has been misinformed relative to facts, even as to estimates as to the number of city students who attended the business college during the period above mentioned.

Respectfully,
ROSE J. KEEFE,
Pres. Keefe Bus. College.

INSECTS STORM TOWN

Bright lights of the downtown section attracted millions of June flies to the city last night, and for several hours the windows of stores along Main street were covered with the insects. They were thickest at the corner of Third and Main streets, attracted by the bright light in front of the Young & Boerner drug store. Beneath the light so many had fallen and been crushed by pedestrians that the pavement was wet for a circle yards in diameter.

It seems as though most of the farmhands that don't get into vaudeville get into baseball.

WHAT DYSPECTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

ALLEGED SLAVER HELD TO THE JURY

William Babcock Goes to Jail in Default of $1,500 Bail Which Is Demanded

Held on a charge of violating the Mann white slave act, William Babcock of Valley Junction, Wis., was yesterday bound over to await action of the federal grond jury at Superior by United States Court Commissioner Alfred Harrison. The charge against Babcock alleges that he took Miss Hester Whistler from Valley Junction to Duluth for immoral purposes. In default of $1,500 bond Babcock is being held at the county jail. The grand jury will meet early in September.

Assistant United States District Attorney A. C. Hoppmann of Madison appeared for the government. J. G. Graham of Tomah appeared for the defendant.

Evidence given by Miss Whistler revealed that she and Babcock had had illegal relations since June, 1911. On December 18, 1913, according to her testimony, she went to Muscatine, Ia., where she met Babcock according to previous arrangements. After a few days, Miss Whistler said, she and Babcock went to Thornburg, where she stayed with friends. They left Thornburg January 3 of this year, going to St. Louis. From St. Louis, she swore, they went to Rockford, Ill., where they stayed a week. Miss Whistler returned to her home in Valley Junction from Rockford and was joined a few days later by Babcock.

On January 26, Miss Whistler testified she left for Duluth, stopping off one day at Eau Claire. Babcock, she said, met her at Duluth soon afterwards. The couple stayed in Duluth for three weeks. From there, they went to St. Paul, where they parted, Miss Whistler returning to her home in Valley Junction and Babcock going to Superior. Miss Whistler testified that Babcock had made arrangements to meet her in Duluth.

TEXAS PRIMARY MAY HIT WILSON

DALLAS, Texas, July 25.—With President Wilson, Secretary of State Bryan and Postmaster General Burleson, endorsing Thomas H. Ball of Houston, prohibition candidate, his defeat by James E. Ferguson of Temple, the pro-saloon candidate for governor in Texas's state wide democratic primaries, today would be interpreted as a rebuke to the national administration. Only white men cast their ballots today, negroes being expressly barred from voting.

In the congressional primaries the incumbents pointed to their administration record while aspirants generally promised to support President Wilson. The agricultural free list was under fire in several districts.

Duty of Charitable.

We give most worthily when we assume the worthy use of our gifts. The idle flinging of a coin to an undeserving beggar is not true benevolence; it is a cheap and easy way of buying relief to our own feelings. So to give to any cause which does not wisely and economically expend its receipts is foolish charity. In a word, it is as much a part of a giver's duty to examine financial reports as it is to read appeals for aid.

Heredity.

Who knows what seeds each man living on earth leaves behind him, which are only destined to come up after his death? Who can say by what mysterious bond a man's fate is bound up with his children's, his descendants', how his yearnings are reflected in them, and how they are punished for his errors?—Ivan Turgenief.

SCOTT SAYS CUP IS SAFE IN U. S.

Sir Thomas Can't Lift It Says Local Merchant After Viewing Resolute in Her Trials

Sir Thomas Lipton will not add the yacht racing cup to the list of trophies captured by the British in American sport competition this year, according to N. M. Scott, of the Scott-Rose company, who is now "vacationing" on Prince Edward's Island. En route to the island, Mr. Scott toured along the Atlantic seaboard, and saw the defender contestant, Resolute, in her trials. He pronounced the American yacht a beauty.

Mr. Scott's letter expresses interest in the success of the Homecoming week. Although he was one of the leaders in the preparations for the celebration, Mr. Scott left for the east before the week began.

His letter follows:

Charlottetown, P. E. I.,
July 7, 1914.

Friend Brayton:

We arrived here one week ago and have had no hot weather so far. We had three wet cold days the first part of the week and it was around 60. We felt the cold very much, as the sea air makes it very penetrating. The last four days have been fine bright sunshine, but only 75, so that we don't have to take off our coats. I spend most of my time on the docks among the shipping. Mrs. S. says she knows where to find me at any time. I managed to have her go down with me yesterday morning. There were nineteen large ships in and two steamers. All of their goods come by boat from Canada and lots from Great Britain. I find in the dry goods lines, much American made goods, some that are made by American manufacturers in their mills in Canada. The duty on British goods is from 17½ to 25 per cent and American goods from 25 to 30 per cent. They all like American wash goods and would like to buy from us. They have very well kept stores here but no department stores, as we term them. They carry the regular dry goods for ladies with men's clothing and furnishings.

This is a very old fashioned town, no stores open on the Sabbath. Drug stores are only open from 8 to 9 p. m. after the kirks are out on the Sunday evenings. I could not get into the postoffice to mail a letter, had to mail it outside in a box.

They depend on the farming, as there is no manufacturing on the island. They have fine farms and very fertile soil. It is a rich brown soil and I am told that you cannot find a stone on the farms. We are going to spend the next two weeks at the summer hotels around the island, where they have fine fishing and the best of bathing on fine sandy beaches. They open July 1, as it is too cold till near the 10 to 15. They have many visitors from the states in cottages all along the shore on the Atlantic side, where you can see all the shipping pass going to the gulf of St. Lawrence.

We had a fine trip through the east, but found business poor, especially the dry goods, and Claflin put it on the bum.

We visited Boston, Providence, Narragansett, Bristol, New York, etc.

I saw the trials of the "Resolute" at Bristol, was out in a steamboat and quite close to her. I was more than delighted with her. I expected to see a freak, but I found her a yacht of very fine lines, most beautiful to look upon as she was close hauled going dead in the wind's eye, I would have spent all my time there watching her, but we had to go. She was later at New York, have never seen how she made out there, but I am ready to say that our friend Lipton will have to wait some little time yet before he lifts the cup even although they say this is a British year. I am told that Lipton's craft is of the freak order. I would give anything to see this race, as I am getting interested after seeing the "Resolute." I hope she may give a good account at the trial races in New York.

I expect to be here for two weeks longer, as I have to be in Chicago about the 24th or 25th. I saw by the papers that you had a wet day Tuesday. I am anxiously waiting to hear how the rest of the week turned out. I hope that it was a big success in every way. The display of the made in La Crosse goods must have been a big success, as I see they had lots of people looking at the exhibits.

This is the 7th and we have only had the papers of July 1st. No boat runs on Sunday, so we won't have any mail from the states before Tuesday morning. The boat train arrives here about 9:30 in the evening and this mail is distributed the next morning about 8 a. m.

With kind regards and best wishes to the many friends in La Crosse,

Yours sincerely,
N. M. SCOTT.

ORGANIZATION IS HELD BENEFICIAL

Both Union Men and Employers Say that Combinations Are Satisfactory

CHICAGO, July 25.—Two leaders of forces that have locked horns in several big industrial battles, found themselves in accord on several big questions involving labor in their statements before the federal commission on industrial relations today.

Charles W. Gindele, president of the Chicago Building and Construction Employers' association, composed of 1,100 contractors and builders, declared strong organizations of both employes and employers beneficial to both sides in the building trade. Collective bargaining he said, was much more simple and satisfactory than dealing with individuals. Disputes could be adjusted more quickly, he said.

Simon O'Donnell, president of the Chicago Building Trades Council, with a membership of about 80,000 union workmen, made practically the same statement.

Gindele who was the first witness today, said his principal complaint against the unions was the fact that a few of them disregarded their agreements. The majority of the unions, he said, abided by their agreements.

Gindele admitted that a number of employers in the association of which he is the head, have been guiity of the same acts he charged against the unions.

Original Suggestion.

A very pretty way of renewing old furniture in a child's room is to paint it with robin's egg blue enamel. When dry stick on underneath each keyhole in drawers of dresser or chiffonier very small pink-tinted designs of roses, cupids (which one finds on old valentines, postals, etc.) and when well stuck on in place give them a light coat of shellac. The effect is very pretty.

BLOODSHED IS FEARED

SERIOUS RIOTING IN ST. JOHNS STREET CAR STRIKE LAST NIGHT IS QUELLED BY TROOPS

ST. JOHNS, N. B., July 25.—Serious rioting and possible bloodshed was feared today when street railway employes who struck Thursday for higher wages, began gathering early in the business section for a demonstration.

Militiamen patrolled the streets throughout the night. They were augmented today by the arrival of additional troops from Fredericton and Halifax. The guns of the militiamen are loaded and bayonets fixed and at the first sign of disorders both will be trained on the 4,000 strikers.

St. Johns was in partial darkness during the night, crowds having attacked the lighting plant. The mob poured cement into the generators. In the ensuing charge by police and militia shots were fired but no one was hit.

Twelve members of the Houston (Texas) Motorcycle club recently made a tour to Port Arthur and Galveston and return.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET AND REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

EMANUEL L. PHILIPP

Republican State Ticket

For Governor—
EMANUEL L. PHILIPP, of Milwaukee.

For Lieutenant Governor—
MARSHALL COUSINS, of Eau Claire County.

For Secretary of State—
NELS HOLMAN, of Dane County.

For State Treasurer—
CARL SCHARDT, of Oconto County.

For Attorney General—
FRANK R. BENTLEY, of Sauk County.

For United States Senator—
LEVI H. BANCROFT, of Richland County.

The above ticket, nominated by the Republican State Convention held at Madison, on Tuesday, June 23d, 1914, was the result of a spontaneous, unbossed movement. The law so far limits the expenses of candidates and committees that it has been determined to use newspaper advertising space as the cheapest method of reaching a large number of voters. One letter to each voter in Wisconsin would cost a sum to exceed the limits of total expenditures permitted under the law. For such a purpose the two cent stamps would, alone, cost over $14,000.

The following platform, adopted by the Madison Convention, expresses the position of the above named candidates upon the questions now pressing in Wisconsin, and it also reflects the spirit of the 10,000 Republican voters who called these candidates into service.

TEXT OF THE PLATFORM.

Tariff.

There is a general stagnation of business, throwing thousands of working men out of employment and reducing the hours of labor for a still larger number, thereby diminishing their earnings. We charge that this condition has been brought about by unwise tariff legislation. We favor a reasonable protective tariff, scientifically adjusted, to encourage business and to protect our laborers, farmers, miners and manufacturers against the products of the cheaper labor of foreign countries.

Railways.

We favor the control of railway capitalization by the United States Government to prevent over-capitalization and the misuse of corporate funds and for the reassurance of small investors.

Conventions.

We believe that political parties are necessary to guard the rights and liberties of the people. Party conventions are necessary to maintain party organizations and to give to the people an opportunity to assemble and discuss their needs, dictate their party platform and select candidates who will stand on the platform of the party. We, therefore, demand the re-establishment by law of party conventions, reserving to the voters the right to elect delegates by the Australian ballot

Taxes.

The cost of state government has increased more than 350% since 1900, while the population has increased less than 13%. This condition is alarming and is causing widespread concern among all classes of citizens. It raises the question whether the state has a moral right to use its taxing power to an extent approaching confiscation of property in times of peace. We declare these large expenditures to be a reckless and wasteful use of the taxpayers' money and demand immediate and substantial retrenchment. Every branch of the state government should be fairly investigated and reorganized with a view of bringing the cost as low as possible without injury to the service.

Commissions.

We believe in constitutional government and in concentrating the responsibility for government in the hands of the constitutional officers of the state who are elected by the people and are directly responsible to the people. The delegation of power to boards and commissions which are out of reach of the people is building up a wasteful, meddlesome and dangerous bureaucracy that is destructive of the fundamentals of government and the American principle of home rule. We demand the abolition of all useless commissions, retaining only such as experience has proven are of value to the people. We especially condemn the Legislative Reference Bureau and its present management as being responsible for much unwise legislation.

University.

We are friends of the University and wish to maintain it as an educational institution of the highest standard. We demand, however, that the expenses of that institution be cut down to a sum that the people can afford to pay and that its disbursements be publicly accounted for. We demand that the University be kept out of politics. We demand further that non-resident students be compelled to pay a tuition fee that represents the amount expended by the people of this state for their education. There is a persistent rumor circulated by the press and by the men who claim to have knowledge of the fact that important members of the faculty are not devoting all their time to work in the university and that they are otherwise employed under pay; that character-building in the student is neglected because of the almost constant absence of important teachers; that the doctrine of socialism is being inculcated by certain teachers, all of which is objectionable if it be true. We favor the principle of "lehrfreiheit." The truth shall and must be taught. However, socialism is not a demonstrated truth and we regard it as destructive of every principle of government that is dear to the American people and the mind of the student should be kept free from its misleading theories.

We demand a full, fair and complete legislative investigation of the University. If the charges that are made are found to be untrue the institution and its faculty should be exonerated in language that will not be misunderstood. If found true, we demand that such conditions be corrected in the interest of the citizen, taxpayers, students and of the University itself. The true friend of the University is the candid friend.

Education.

We favor the placing of all state educational institutions in charge of a single board, to the end that all moneys available for their support shall be equitably distributed and that there be co-operation in the interests of education and to make successful management of these institutions possible. We believe that in matters of education the state ought to lend its aid and extend its pricipal concern to the local schools, because the masses receive no further education than is obtainable therein. We demand that the local schools be given first consideration in the educational encouragement of the state. In educational affairs we believe in justice to all and special favors to none.

Good Roads.

We favor the good roads movement, but we denounce the present system as unequal, extravagant and unproductive of good results, and we demand a revision of the present law to the end that the people's money may be expended by the local authorities under competent supervision.

Forestry.

The scheme of reforestation as attempted by this state is both costly and unwise and should be discontinued. Reforestation of our cutover land is a proper enterprise for the United States government to engage in. It can pay no returns for one hundred years or more and it is therefore unfair to burden the people of this state with heavy taxes to carry out this project for the benefit of the nation at large.

Water Powers.

We demand that the laws governing water powers shall be so amended as to make the development of water powers possible.

Constitutional Amendments.

We call the attention of the people to the proposed amendments to our State Constitution. They provide for the initiative, referendum and recall. These propositions are destructive of representative government, have been absolutely discredited by experience elsewhere, and should be voted down.

The amendment removing constitutional limitations from the insurance commissioner is vicious and dangerous. It will divest the people of the protection they now enjoy under the Constitution against the incurring of extravagant public debts and liabilities and may in the end cost the taxpayers large sums of money. We urge the people of Wisconsin, for their own safety, to vote down all pending constitutional amendments at the next general election.

WANTS PROBE OF BOALT'S AFFAIR

Representative Bryan Puts in Resolution Demanding Explanation of Vera Cruz Case

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Representative Bryan of Washington, demanded in a house resolution today to know whether threats of jail sentence were made to Correspondent Fred L. Boalt, during the naval inquiry into his "ley de fuga" story from Vera Cruz.

Impatient over the slowness with which information is reaching members of congress following the navy department's investigation of the newspaper correspondent's article, Bryan presented a long resolution calling upon Secretary of the Navy Daniels for information in his possession.

The resolution anticipates the arrival of the minutes of the court of inquiry aboard the battleship Texas which investigated Boalt's charges that information was furnished him by Ensign Richardson.

Full testimony in the investigation of Ensign Richardson was received today by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

He refused at this time to make public any of the testimony. He will turn the evidence over to the judge advocate of the navy department and Monday will send a complete copy to the senate.

Daniels said that he had not yet found out whether the testimony showed that Richardson had given the information to Boalt on which the latter's "law of flight' story was based.

Organizer John Rae said today that he had heard no reply yet to his invitation to the Winona and Tomah union men to join La Crosse labor in their annual celebration.

WORK NIGHTS TO GET ROOF PLACED

After working feverishly until midnight every night since Monday a crew of 75 men have finished putting the roof over the remodeled factory of the Badger Steel Roofing and Corrugating company on Second street opposite the Burlington depot. The building has been raised two stories in height, one section being completed each day by Contractor E. W. Noble. As soon as the contractor's men finished their day's work, the men of the roofing company were set at work covering the part completed under the beams of a strong arc light. The work was finished last night, when the last section of the roof was raised and covered. G. F. Sexauer, head of the roofing company, explained the high pressure work by the statement that they had feared rain, which would do incalculable damage to the stock and machinery in the plant if the roof were not on.

EXPECT 300 WILL COME WITH MOPPY

More than 300 fans from Rushford are expected to be in La Crosse tomorrow to see Moppy Anderson, local boy boy who is burning up the bushes with the Rushford aggregation, twirl against the Eagles' nine. Anderson has not lost a game this year. He is the idol of the Rushford fans, and is expected to give the fast Eagle team the battle of its existence.

Pearls and Rubies.

Pearls may be found nearly anywhere in waters inhabited by oysters or mussels. Some of Canada's fresh water pearls have a fairly high value. The Mississippi has also yielded valuable pearls. Rubies have usually come from the East—India or Ceylon—though South America has furnished some good specimens. Oil wells are really excavations into underlying lakes or "fields" of petroleum, generally found on this continent just above the Trenton limestone formation.

Poor Adam.

"If Adam had lived till now," says Mr. Snowden, "and had worked hard at honest labor the whole time, and had been a thrifty man withal, he would not have had an income like some of those enjoyed today." Mr. Snowden is apparently presuming that Adam's wife would have lived as long as her husband.—Punch.

Ladies who have tell us that it is the cheapest and best laundry servant they ever employed.

What boils the clothes so faithfully and with so little waste heat as gas? Nothing.

What is the secret of easy washing?

Boiling the dirt out of the clothes, isn't it?

When the water begins to bubble turn down the flame; a small fire will keep the boiler boiling.

The boiling brings out the dirt gently—without harm to the fabrics. Rinse and wring the clothes and the washing is done.

LET US SHOW YOU HOW IT WORKS.

Casperson Hurls the Comeback Boys to Victory by Score of 14 to 8

The Naps of the Copeland park indoor baseball league scored a comeback last night when they took the Combinations into camp for the second time this season. Score, 14 to 8. Casperson, throwing for the winners, displayed fine control. Team work was lacking in the first two innings.

The Nelsons continued their winning streak by beating the Rubber Mills 13 to 8. In this game the Rubbers made more scores on the leaders than any other team thus far this year. Limpert, pitching for the Rubber Mills, showed good control.

In the closest game of the evening, the Dew Drop Inns took a game from Larry's Colts. The final score was 4 to 3, the closest count of any game played this year.

"THE CRASH"

HE WOULD HAVE BEEN A HERO BUT HE DIDN'T GET THE OPPORTUNITY

"Bunny" Naprasky,, 929 Ferry street, would have been a hero last night, but Miss Evelyn Pranze of Des Moines wouldn't let him. When their canoe tipped over under the railroad bridge last night, and "Bunny" tried to rescue her, she sent him back to rescue the canoe, and swam ashore alone.

Naprasky is assistant manager of the Hannan Shoe company in Milwaukee. He was home for a vacation, and last night he took Miss Pranze, also here on a vacation, out in his canoe. They went up river, and in the center of the stream, beneath the railroad bridge, they overturned.

When Naprasky came up he made for Miss Pranze.

"Go on back,' said she. "Get the canoe ashore. I don't need any help."

So "Bunny" swam back to the canoe and dragged it shore, to find Miss Pranze wringing out her skirts, and ready to help him empty the craft of its water. They righted the canoe and came home without any further thrills.

"Hero—nothin'!" said "Bunny" today. "I didn't have a chance."

RETURNS FROM MEET

DR. H. CLAY EVENSON RETURNS FROM CONVENTION OF AMERICAN OPTICAL ASSOCIATION WHERE HE DELIVERED SPEECH

Dr. H. Clay Evenson returned today from St. Louis, where he spoke at the convention of the American Optical association. Dr. Evenson delivered an address on the "Welfare of the Convention."

"The convention demonstrated," said Dr. Evenson today, "that in the future the optometrists will take care of the eyes of the country. This was shown by the attention paid to the convention by the big optical companies. They had the biggest exhibits they have ever prepared. Dr. Max Poser of London, a fellow of the Royal Medical society and of the Royal Institute, in a speech to the convention told us that optometrical methods with opthalmic lenses were the coming thing for correction of errors in the human eye."

Dr. Evenson, while in St. Louis, bought machines for surfacing lenses, giving him a complete plant for the manufacture of lenses in every stage from the rough glass to finished product.

OIL COUNTY ROADS

Three and a half miles of La Crosse county roads were yesterday treated with oil, the first job of the kind ever attempted in La Crosse county. Twenty thousand square yards in the aggregate were treated. The stretches oiled are the Onalaska-Midway, the Mormon Coulee and the South Salem roads. Three men with two teams and two city sprinklers were all the crew needed. The expense totalled approximately $66.

SERVIA GIVES IN TO AUSTRIA AND WAR IS AVERTED

aid in confining the war to Servia and Austria, providing Russia keeps hands off, but will look to them for support should the czar interfere.

Refuse Arbitration

VIENNA, July 25.—The Austro-Hungarian government today semi-officially rejected all attempts of other powers to intervene in the crisis brought about by the demands made upon Servia. Arbitration will not be accepted, it is declared, and all arrangements for crossing the border are going forward. This step will be taken unless the Servian reply is in the hands of the Austrian minister at Belgrade by six o'clock. It is reported that general mobilization orders will go out tonight.

Belgrade Would Fight

BELGRADE, July 25. Greatest excitement prevailed here today as the ministers met in special conference to discuss the Austrian ultimatum.

The keynote of sentiment in the capital is to face destruction rather than comply with the demands of Austro-Hungary. An extraordinary session of pa rliament ha been called for tomorrow.

Kaiser Waits for Czar

BERLIN, July 25.—Newspaper extras containing war-like despatches from Vienna and St. Petersburgh today intensified the excitement and suspense in financial, governmental and military circles as a result of the ultimatum from Austria which Servia must answer by six o'clock.

The Bourse continued panicky and there were heavy withdrawals from all banks.

In Berlin as well as other capitals, orders are being prepared for military movements. They will be held, however, pending developments. Germany is now awaiting action by Russia and should the Czar support Servia, the kaiser's government will immediately back up Austria in the demands upon Belgrade.

WINS RACE AND PROVES WIND BEST

John Harder, 1316 Redfield street, is richer by $4, at least he was Thursday night. John, who is considering starting training for the 1916 Olympics in the old country, won the race Thursday night with his friend, Bert Hohl, 1327 Johnson street, from Twelfth street and Mormon Coulee road to Stephan's place, a distance of four miles. He finished the distance in 23 minutes. Hohl came in in 30 minutes. Hohl is now satisfied that Harder has better wind than he. The question of wind was the occasion of the race.

IS SENT TO PRISON AFTER GUILTY PLEA

Aged Trempealeau Resident Must Serve a Year on Charge of a Young Girl

Elmer Odell, 53 years old, was given a year in Waupun this morning by Judge Higbee in the circuit court. Odell, a resident of Trempealeau, was charged with taking liberties with Miss Lucile Hartman, 14 years of age.

He entered a plea of guilty to the charge and received his sentence. The complaint in the case was made by Earl T. Hensel, district attorney of the count.

He was taken at once to Waupun to start serving his term, by Sheriff Carl Jaker of Trempealeau.

A resolution to pave Fifth street, from Cass to Market, with brick, was referred.

In an ordinance introduced by Alderman Houska is passed the Eighth and Twenty-first wards will be redistricted. He claims that the Eighth ward is too large and the Twenty-first too small.

The proposed boundaries of the Eighth ward, under the ordinance would be Tenth street from Jackson to Denton, Denton street from Tenth east to the city limits, north along the city limits to Jackson.

The Twenty-first ward boundary would be north on Tenth street from the south city limits to Denton, east to the city limits and south on the eastern limits to the south city limits.

Borrow $10,000

Charles Lumley was last night elected north side weighmaster to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of H. V. Schneider.

A resolution to borrow $10,000 from some other fund to defray necessary construction expense at the new water plant was passed as a solution of the problem created by a shortage in the water fund.

A proposition to purchase a lungmoter, a life saving device, for the police department, was turned down. It is an appliance conceded to be superior to the pulmotor and one that is in use at all Chicago police stations.

The proposition to transfer $2,500 from the general fund to the police fund and thus make possible, according to Chief Webber, the appointment of a woman police officer, was turned down, thus killing, for the first time at least the policewoman plan.

No Fare for "Cops"

The council also voted against paying the street car fare of policemen, expended while in the discharge of their duty.

There are to be many blocks of new sewer in La Crosse. It is proposed to lay sewers on Thirteenth street from Madison to Cass; on Fourth street from Vine to the Northwestern railroad right of way; on Badger from Third to Fourth; on Berlin from Gillette to Gores and on Charles from Gillette to George.

POLITICAL BOSS UP ON MURDER CHARGE

Will Plead Unwritten Law as Excuse for Killing Daughter's Bridegroom

VICTIM'S FATHER ON DEFENSE

Will Try and Save the Slayer of His Boy from Death in the Electric Chair

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., July 25.—Backed by powerful and wealthy political friends, William V. Cleary, political boss, who shot to death his daughter's husband of six days, 18 year old Eugene Martin Newman, will base his defense on "unwritten law," and a plea that he was wild with drink to which he turned in his brooding. This was the belief expressed today by friends of Cleary after they had visited him in his cell at New City.

Fred Newman, father of the slain lad, a former schoolmate bosom friend and close political ally of Cleary's, will work against the conviction of his son's slayer on a first degree murder charge. The father frankly stated that he would be satisfied with a "term of years."

At yesterday's preliminary inquest, every portion of the evidence showed that the boy never had a chance for his life. He had called upon Cleary to tell him of the elopement with his daughter.

Three eye witnesses to the shooting agreed on the following points: Young Newman entered Cleary's office and sat down at the suggestion of Cleary, near a window, without a word. Cleary calmly arose from his desk, walked to his safe and extracted a revolver and turning to the boy, said:

"You thought you got the best of me. Well, I've got you now." As Cleary finished talking he fired four times.

REGISTER TRUST IS FINED $10,000

Must Pay Within Sixty Days or Quit Business in Business Rules Court

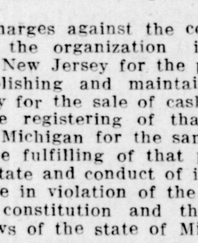

LANSING, Mich., July 25.—The National Cash Register company of Dayton, Ohio, must pay to the clerk of the supreme court of Michigan the sum of $10,000 within the next sixty days or quit business in this state. Such was the punishment meted out to the concern today by the supreme court after it had been found guilty of conducting a monopoly in Michigan, for the first year of its business, in the state ending in July of 1907.

The charges against the company included the organization in the state of New Jersey for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a monopoly for the sale of cash registers; the registering of that company in Michigan for the same purpose; the fulfilling of that purpose in this state and conduct of its business here in violation of the United States constitution and the anti-trust laws of the state of Michigan.

HOUNDS ON TRAIL OF TRAIN ROBBERS

Search for Trio Who Loot L. & N. Train in New Orleans and Kill Flagman

NEW ORLEANS, July 25.—Bloodhounds and six posses are today trying to trace the three train robbers who late last night held up and robbed the Louisville & Nashville's New York Limited within the city limits.

If the robbers are caught a triple lynching is likely as there is widespread indignation over the wanton murder of Thomas Englin, the flagman. One man in the Pullman lined up 20 men and women in their night gowns and pajamas and forced them to surrender all valuables. It is believed the loot will reach $2,000.

Trainmen say the flagman was killed simply to intimidate passengers as he had offered no resistance.

Conductor Potter of the L. & N. this morning identified photographs in the rogues' gallery of Clarence E. Boatwright of Chicago, and Alfred M. Oliver of St. Louis as the men who held up the train.

They are still at large.

NATIONAL GUARD CAMP ENDS TODAY

Camp Douglas Encampment Is Broken Up This Morning and Men Are Paid Off

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 25.—(Special.)—Ending a week of imitation war and genuine camp life, the National guard encampment here broke up this morning. Camp was struck at 7 o'clock this morning, and the 3,000 citizen soldiers from all parts of the state turned their sunburned faces toward the trains which were waiting to carry them home.

One of the most interesting portions of this morning's work—to the men of the camp—was the payment of the men for their week's work. Forty-eight thousand dollars was paid out by the militia paymasters to the men and officers of the state guard.

Companies M and B, the La Crosse contingents of the Third regiment, were scheduled to arrive in their special train in La Crosse at about 3 o'clock.

SCOUTS ON HIKE PRACTICE SIGNALS

Twenty or more boy scouts left this afternoon for French Lake to practice flag signalling. At French Lake they joined a squad of scouts who hiked there yesterday for the sae purpose. The entire number will return to La Crosse late this afternoon.

A hike to Hokah, Minn., is planned for Monday. More than thirty boys will make the trip there. They will remain in Hokah until Wednesday afternoon.

Coon Valley will be the scene of the next big encampment, which is planned for the first week in August. A large tent there will accommodate the boys. Games, flag drill and bird and tree study will comprise the work of the trip.

An exhibition of scout work will be given Saturday, August 1, at the Jackson street playground following the badge test of the playground directors.

PLOW COMPANY HOLDS FIELD MEET

The La Crosse Plow company this week conducted its annual field meet for eighteen Minneapolis representatives of the concern. The men were taken into the country and given practical demonstrations of the machines manufactured here. The machines of competitors were tried out and compared.

Next week about sixteen salesmen traveling out of La Crosse will participate in a similar meet.

LADIES' GUILD TO GIVE EXCURSION

An excursion to Winona will be given next Wednesday by the Ladies' Guild of Christ church on the boat G. W. Hill. The excursion will leave La Crosse at 12:15, arriving in Winona at 3:30, and returning at 7:30. The excursion will be available for people enjoying half-holidays on Wednesday and also for people from nearby towns who will be able to reach La Crosse on the morning trains.

Dobly has transferred a lot in Losey's addition to the city of La Crosse for $1,500. Anna R. Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, July 25.—The European political situation sent wheat prices off with an excited upward movement of 1⅛ to 1½ over last night's closing prices. Northwest crop conditions were favorable but talk of a European war was an effective bull argument.

Corn was also affected by the fear that a war would tie up Danubian supplies. Prices were ½ to ⅞ higher at the start and held the advance throughout the day's brief session.

Oats started steady to a shade easier in spite of the movement in tthe other pit. Favorable weather conditions outweighed any other factor and the general feeling was easier with no radical price changes during the day.

Provisions were a trifle stronger at the start on account of slightly higher hog prices but eased off toward the close.

NEW YORK, July 25.—With the Austrian ultimatum to Servia due to expire this afternoon and the holiday intervening before the markets could know the upshot of it, European stock exchanges naturally lapsed this morning into great demoralization. At the foreign opening, French three per cents fell 1½ point further on the Paris bourse, British consols 1½ at London, and the government bonds of Austria and other continental states 2 points or thereabouts. Other securities on these stock exchanges declined with the public issues; before our market had opened, the important American hares were selling in London 1 to 2 points below the New York parity, and Europe sold upwards of 40,000 shares in the New York markets.

Our own stock exchange reflected this European break in prices only partially. The opening declines at New York were considerably smaller than the decline in the same stocks on the earlier foreign market. As a rule, the initial losses were only small fractions, and a recovery from those opening prices, running to ½ or ¾ points, followed immediately. This recovery was carried somewhat further later, net losses for the day were negligible and the closing was distinctly strong. In short our market withstood the shock of the European incident as stoutly as it has borne up against a series of other severe happenings.

GET AN OBJECT IN LIFE

Jane Lee tells in the August Pictorial Review of the many roads of employment now open to young girls of snap and ambition. As usual, this well-known and popular writer goes straight to the point.

How many of you girls who live just out of town where you can cultivate a small piece of land have heard about the tomato canning clubs that were started and encouraged by the United States government? I am told that tomatoes are one of the easiest vegetables to grow.

If you are interested in this idea send to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., asking for Farmers' Bulletin No. 521, on "Canning Tomatoes at Home and in Club Work." Other bulletins which might be helpful are Nos. 293, 220, 225. All of these will be sent to you free of charge. In Bulletin No. 521, you will find an itemized account of what girls accomplish on one-tenth acre of ground some of them showing a profit of seventy-five dollars for one season.

MRS. THURLOW IS DEAD IN KANSAS

Woman Widely Known in West Salem and La Crosse Dies After Long Illness

WEST SALEM, Wis., July 25.—Mrs. Emma Thurlow died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John A. Kendall, in Kansas City, Mo., Monday evening, July 6. Mrs. Thurlow had been in very poor health for many years. Nine years ago she had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, following pneumonia, and was advised to try the climate of California. This she did, making California her home from that time during the winter months, but the summer she has generally spent in Kansas City, La Crosse, West Salem and Newark, N. J. During all this time she had borne her illness with such fortitude and cheerfulness that it was difficult for her friends to realize the fact that she was gradually failing in strength. The summer of 1913, for four months, she spent in Pottinger's sanatorium at Mourona, Cal., but this famous institution failed to do for her what it thad done for many. After leaving Pottinger's she spent some time in a private sanatarium in Pasadena, Cal., where she seemed to improve greatly, and she very much desired to visit her friends in the east again this summer. She arrived in Kansas City just a month prior to her death. On July 2 she fell and broke a bone in the hip joint and though this seemed to cause very little suffering she did not recover from the shock. Her death has been a great sorrow to many devoted friends.

Emma Headley was born in 1849, in Berlin, Wis., where she spent her girlhood and where she was married in 1874 to A. R. Thurlow, also of Berlin. Six children were born to them, of whom but one, Mrs. Inga Kendall, survives. The funeral services of Mrs. Thurlow were held in Berlin, Friday, July 10, at the Union church, Rev. Higgins conducting the services. Two beautiful solos were rendered. Dudley Buck's arrangement of "Crossing the Bar," was sung by Alfred Jones and Mrs. Buel sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, sent by relatives and friends in Berlin and from Newark, N. J., Kansas City and West Salem.

Mrs. Thurlow's remains rest beside three of her children, Nellie, Chloe and Ralph in the beautiful cemetery at Berlin.

Handkerchief Shower

Mrs. Otto Hussa of Bangor was hostess at a handkerchief shower Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Gladys McEldowney, the bride-to-be. A number of Miss McEldowney's Salem friends were invited.

OLYMPIC TRAINER ON WAY TO AMERICA

HAMBURG, July 25.—Sailing for America on the Vaterland, Dr. Alvin C. Kranzlein, the American trainer in chief of the German Olympic team, denied today that there has been friction between himself and the Olympic managers. It had been reported that, although his contract has two years to run, Kranzlein would not return to Germany.

"Germany has material in plenty," said Kranzlein, referring to their chances of winning in the 1916 games. "They are very enthusiastic. I think they will have a very well balanced team."

JOHNSON DENIES HE SCORED T. R.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 25.—Reports that he has denounced Col. Roosevelt as a "traitor, hypocrite and double dealer," are "from beginning to end absolutely and unqualifiedly false," according to a statement made today by Gov. Hiram Johnson of California. The San Francisco Chronicle printed a Sacramento dispatch today declaring Johnson was angry at Roosevelt as the result of the colonel's renewed political activities.

FINGER PRINTS MAY CHEAT ROPE

CHICAGO, July 25. — Finger print evidence may save Henry Spencer from going to the gallows one week from today for the murder of Mrs. Mildred Allison-Rexroat, Chicago tango teacher. Spencer's attorneys, who yesterday made another plea to Governor Dunne for a commutation of sentence, announced today that finger prints found on bits of a calling card found scattered near the murdered victim's body are not those of Spencer.

Little Harold was sent to a neighbor's house on an errand. In due time he came back and was questioned by his mother what Mrs. Gilchriss' folks were doing. "They had company, and they were all talking in German," answered the lad, "but I couldn't tell what language they were laughing in."

CHURCH NEWS

Without question the Rev. Dr. F. B. Meyer of London, is one of the foremost Christian leaders and statesmen of this or any time. Known in America as well as in England, and in almost all of the English speaking world as well as in either, he is consulted by kings and presidents, princes and reformers, as are few men in the old world or the new. In denominational allegiance he is a Baptist, but he has been pastor of a London Congregational church, that of the famous Newman Hall, and in America has always been identified with the Moody educational interests and with Presbyterians.

In England he is a leader of the Free Church, but consulted by the king, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, by the premier in Downing street, by cabinet secretaries who must deal with Turkey, with Egypt, with India, with the Balkans, with everybody, while as an evangelist he stands in the foremost rank both as actual preacher and as leader of revival campaigns. Ripe in years and in knowledge, he can with difficulty think in terms of merely the British Isles, but must do so in words and phrases that fit South Africa to St. Petersburg, and South America to Alaska.

"The most significant thing of the moment that I discover in the large affairs of the Christian world," observed Dr. Meyer in New York a day or two ago, and just before departing for home, "is this Brotherhood movement. This is strongest in America, but is growing in England. It is strongest here among Presbyterians and Methodists, but obtains among Congregationalists, Disciples and others. The proposal is to unite with the International Sunday School association, and make one grand and great force or federation in behalf of education, laymen being the backbone of the movement and the Bible the foundation. We hope to create a movement for religious education that shall be a man's job, and the bigger the man the more worth his while to take hold of the job.

"The late Sylvester Horne, great Christian pastor and leader as well as member of parliament, cut off in the midst of most wonderful usefulness, led the enterprise in England. It had its seat in the Free Churches at first, but is gradually being taken over by the established churchmen. I consider it, especially the American part of it one of the most significant things in the whole realm of Christian effort. Christian education on broader lines, and men behind it. Could any cause be more significant and important?"

The Rev. Dr. Meyer is secretary of a committee which is perhaps unlike any other in all the world. The present king of England is in effect a member of it. The present Archbishop of Canterbury is also a member. It should be explained that during all the ages the established church of England has assumed itself to be the sole arbiter of religious interests in the kingdom. Quite recently the archbishop named created a committee of fifteen members each, from the established and the Free churches, or thirty in all. Such committee puts, for the first time, Free churchmen on a level with established churchmen.

"The purpose of this committee might not be understood in America, where state and church are distinct, but in England matters come up constantly affecting education, civic affairs, even political interests. Free churchmen in the fifteen include the Rev. Drs. Horton, Scott, Leggett, Garvey, Forsyth, Selby, Shakespeare and men of their light and leading. I have the honor to be secretary. The meaning of such committee, its work and its influence, is that a new relation exists between Christians of England. There is a unity of action, an understanding of the common aims, such as England never knew before."

Naturally the sympathy of the Rev. Dr. Meyer is with Ulster in its contention against Ireland home rule, and he frankly said it is. "But there will be no war," he added quickly. "Englishmen often go long distances in their contentions with words but this Irish question will be adjusted without resort to arms. Ulster will be exempted or excluded for a time, but eventually she will come in. Not to do so will be heavy financial loss. Ulster is the commercial state of Ireland. Through her Irish products reach the outer world in greatest measure.

"Sentiment will and ought to play its part. Even religious convictions should be contended for. But the elements will come together. Business will be of a character to bring both closes, and as Protestant and Catholic come to know each other better there will be agreement. Now there is excitement, but we Britishers get on by compromises. Each side will be granted something, and in a few years prosperity will reign. Both sides and all parties have labored too long and too carefully weighed each step to turn back now."

George V, the king, is depended on with confidence to accomplish much to bring about amicable settlement of the present Ulster wrangle. "I feel that he can be depended on," went on the Rev. Dr. Meyer, "because I heard him say recently, and that in quite a modest and natural way, that for many years, and certainly since he had been on the throne, he had obeyed his rule of reading a chapter of the Bible every day. The world, not Englishmen alone, has much confidence in a king who reads his Bible daily.

"Queen Mary is a sincere Christian woman. She is not only old fashioned in her belief and works, but she is right up to date in her ways. American women whom I saw at Northfield the other day, who formed a union of missionary effort for all America, are not more modern. The queen is in close touch with Christian women who do organized work in England. King and Queen are making a household of the highest purity. They are maintaining the high traditions of Queen Victoria. The world as well as the English people cannot fail to be influenced."

Literary.
The growth of population in Alaska and upper Canada should be distinctly encouraging to our book-sellers. According to a speaker, Norway is "the booksellers' paradise," because of the rarity of amusements and the long, dark nights.—New York Evening Post.

Learn to Forget.
Caesar was so ready to forgive that even Cicero, who was by no means a constant friend to him, relates, as a singular proof of his noble heart, that he never used to forget anything except the wrong done to him. Indeed, to pardon is a most beautiful revenge; but to forget is still more beautiful.—Petrarch.

Keeping Young.
One of the most distinguished men in America was asked to write the history of his state. He was more than seventy-five years old. His answer was that he would not care to undertake that work, as he was but little interested in anything that was in the past.—Harper's Weekly.

FARMER'S WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn. — "I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do." — Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

POEMS You Ought To Know

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT
BY CARDINAL NEWMAN

Lead, kindly Light, amid ahe encircling gloom,
Lead Thou me on!
The night is dark, and I am far from home,
Lead Thou me on!
Keep Thou my feet! I do not ask to see
The distant scene; one step enough for me.

I was not ever thus, nor prayed that Thou
Should'st lead me on;
I loved to choose and see my path; but now
Lead Thou me on!
I loved the garish day; and, spite of fears,
Pride ruled my will; remember not past years.

So long Thy power has blest me, sure it still
Will lead me on.
O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till
The night is gone;
And with the morn those angel faces smile,
Which I have loved long since, and lost awhile.

Ant an Enemy of Mankind.
Ants are not only a nuisance, but are capable of transmitting disease, and some varieties are deadly. Current medical literature cites the case of a child that was left alone, sought amusement in a hill of red ants, and was stung to death. It is stated that white ants have done incalculable damage to the walls and flooring of the Smithsonian building in Washington. A few specimens that were imported from South America for experimental purposes escaped and have multiplied to countless billions.

Bee's Favorite Color.
The late Sir John Lubbock, one of the most noted authorities on bees, proved by long observation and repeated experiments that blue is the favorite color of the bee, and that next after blue come, in order of preference, white, yellow, red, green and orange. Sir John determined the fact that a bee visits about 25 flowers per minute, and that it always keeps to the same species of flower during each visit to the fields.

Exterminate the Cockroach.
The cockroach acts as an insect porter of typhoid fever, bubonic plague and possibly cancer. Several years ago an epidemic of typhoid fever on a United States warship was proved to be propagated by cockroaches. In a recent issue of the London Lancet, Dr. W. Melville Davison calls attention to the fact that the cause of cancer may be an alga or vegetable microorganism which is found in the intestines of several species of roaches.

Daily Thought.
A man who lives right and is right has more power in his silence than another by his words. Character is like bells which ring out sweet music and which, when touched accidentally even, resound with sweet music.—Phillips Brooks.

Bell System

In addition to its usefulness as an instrument for local communication, your Bell telephone can be used to Transact business in distant places.

Keep in touch with distant friends.
Call the home folks when you travel.
Find distant persons in emergencies.
Talk to the children away at school.

Safety in Frills
Two east siders were making their first trip to Europe. On the first night out the sea grew rough and the liner pitched like a chip in the big waves.

One of the travelers, coming to his stateroom to retire, found his friend just getting into bed, and was astonished to note that the second man wore a woman's frilly nightgown and had a lace-and-ribbon trimmed boudoir cap tied upon his head.

"For heaven's sake, man," he gasped, "what's the idea?"

"Well," said his friend, "you know the rule: In case of disaster, women and children first."

Down his Neck
An Ohio farmer took his numerous progeny to a county fair in that state. As the party moved about the grounds the father felt his fourth born tugging at his coattails. He turned, and the youngster begged him to buy a certain toy.

"Buy it yourself," said the father. "Where's the dime I gave you a little while ago?"

"It's down my neck."

"Well, shake it out."

"But, father," protested the lad, "I can't. It was in my mouth when it went down."—Youth's Companion.

Misinformation
There was a dance in the lobby of one of the big apartment houses in Washington. A man who rents an apartment came in, saw the crowd, and asked one of the negro elevator boys:

"What's going on out there?"

"Why," the boy replied, "that is a dance given by one of the maternities of Georgetown university!"

MAY SEND TROOPS

TULSA, Okla., July 25.—Governor Cruce today ordered Adjutant General Cantonhere to investigate alleged lawlessness which has followed the killing of United State Enforcement Officers Davidson and Deputy Howard Plank by William Baber yesterday. If Canton recommends it, the state militia will be sent.

Did Their Courting in Jail.
After carrying on a love correspondence while serving sentences of one month at Knutsford, Cheshire, England, two ex-prisoners were married recently on their release at the parish church, which stands opposite the prison. While in jail the man proposed and was accepted. The prison chaplain made the necessary arrangements for the wedding, and himself officiated at the ceremony.

Orange and Lemon Trees.
An orange tree will sometimes produce 20,000 oranges, while a lemon tree seldom yields more than 2,000 lemons.

LEAPS FROM HOSPITAL

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—Mrs. Rosalia Potts leaped from a fourth story window of St. Mary's infirmary today soon after she had been taken to the institution for treatment for nervousness. She probably will die.

How English Beauties Keep Faces Youthful

Christian Miller, F. C. L. noted English health expert, attributes the early aging of American women mainly to the "national nervousness." The women of England, she says, can teach us the inestimable lesson of repose.

Another valuable lesson to be learned from the English woman is that she does not go much for cosmetics, the continual use of which hurts any complexion. The beauty devotees of King George's realm have the mercolized wax habit, a more wholesome method of keeping the face girlish-looking and healthy. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, rejuvenates the worst complexion. Women here may easily acquire the habit, this wax being obtainable at drug stores generally in the United States and Canada. It is applied at night and washed off in the morning. One ounce is sufficient to completely renovate a bad complexion. It has a peculiar action in keeping the face free from the particles of dead and devitalized scarf skin which are constantly appearing.

CAN'T DECIDE RATES

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The advanced freight rate decision will not be handed down by the interstate commerce commission today despite Chairman Harlan's statement early in the week that every effort would be made to have it ready for announcement today. The commission has been holding daily conferences during the week in an unsuccessful effort to come to an unanimous agreement.

JAILED FOR DEBT

CHICAGO, July 25.—Peter Delitch today began serving an indefinite jail sentence because he told Judge Ryan he would rather go to jail for life than pay David Sanich a grocery bill amounting to $57. The court ordered him jailed until he agreed to pay and directed that Sanich pay his board bill, $3 a week.

Matches Bring Out Society Gallery; Australians Not Up to Americans in Form Say Experts

LAKE FOREST, Ill., July 25.—The last events of the Australian-Canadian team tennis competition brought another society gallery to the Onwentsia club today in spite of the fact that the Australians eliminated Canada and won the right to play Germany in the semi-finals for the Davis cup, by a victory in the doubles yesterday.

Chicago tennis experts declared today that while the matches have been interesting, the winning team has not displayed form that would place it in the same class with the American trophy defenders, should the Australians become the challengers. They pointed out that while the individual work of Anthony Wilding and Norman E. Brookes was brilliant, their team work in the doubles was poor.

In the singles this afternoon Mr. Brookes was to meet R. B. Powell of Canada and Wilding to meet B. P. Schwengers of Canada.

S. N. Doust and A. W. Dunlop, alternates for the Australian team, and Powell of the Canadian team, are entrants in the Western tennis championships in which play started on the Onwentsia courts this afternoon. Preliminary matches in the singles were to be played.

Toy Revolver.

A revolver which has been designed for the nervous woman to carry in her vanity bag is probably the smallest weapon of its kind in the world. From the tip of the hammer to end of the barrel it measures about three inches, and it fires a steel bullet about twice the size of a pin's head. The weapon, which is the latest production of a leading gunmaker, is beautifully made, with mother-o'-pearl mountings.

One on Father.

A young minister preached one Sunday to a rural congregation and spent the next day visiting the people. At one house the man of the house was expressing his appreciation of the sermon in very complimentary terms while assisting the minister to put up his team. His little son had followed him and after eyeing the minister a minute or two exclaimed: "Why, papa, you said he was a one hoss preacher, but he's got two hosses!"—National Monthly.

Common Precursor of Cancer.

It is well proved that chronic ulcer of the stomach, gallstones, and many other irritative conditions of the gastro-intestinal tract are a direct cancer menace to a patient. Any swelling, any little growth like a wart, mole or tumor that suddenly or gradually begins to grow, and increases in size, should be removed by surgical means. The removal of chronic irritation, wherever it may be, is the only known preventive for cancer.

WHITE IS IN FRISCO

TO MEET JOE AZEVEDO NEXT MONTH AT CAFFROTH'S ARENA

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 25.—Charley White, the Chicago lightweight, who outpointed Willie Ritchie before the latter went to England and lost to Freddie Welsh, arrived in San Francisco Friday, accompanied by his manager, Nate Lewis.

White is here for the purpose of boxing Joe Azevedo for Jim Coffroth next month, and will go into training within the next two days, probably at Joe Millett's.

"I believe I am entitled to the lightweight championship just as much as is Freddie Welsh," he said.

"In fact, I think that I have a prior right to the title, for I not only gave Ritchie a more severe trouncing in ten rounds than Welsh did in twenty, but I did it before he did."

GERMAN NET PLAYERS ARRIVE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 25. — Otto Freitzheim and Oscar Kreuzer, Germany's representatives in the Davis cup contests, arrived at Sewickley at 6:45 this morning and were escorted at once to the courts on which they will meet the Australasian tennis players next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The latter team will reach here tomorrow.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.
